And Kittery Does Much To Give Her First Place

GOSSIP OF A DAY COLLECTED BY OUR CORRESPONDENT

Kittery, May 11.
Maine is now a good first in the field of organizing big corporations and Kittery has a good share in giving her this distinction. Twenty-two of them, with an aggregate capitalization of $48,750,000, were organized during the month of April, while New Jersey, formerly the leader in this line, organized during this time but ten corporations with a capitalization of $24,500,000.

Two tugs towing a big dredge and scows bound east tried for several hours to get into the harbor during the northwester of Friday and had nearly succeeded when the wind moderated and they proceeded eastward.

ANCIENT APPEAL

Made To The Patriotism Of Freeman

BY THE GALLANT GEN. JOHN SULLIVAN

Through The Columns Of An Old Portsmouth Newspaper

RECOMMENDATIONS ARE APPLICABLE AT THE PRESENT DAY

From an old Portsmouth paper, published in 1785, is taken the following curious and interesting article, written by Gen. John Sullivan. Its recommendations appear to be equally applicable to the present day:

(For the New Hampshire Mercury.)
To the Freeman of New Hampshire:

Brethren and Fellow-Citizens: Conscious of having had too small a share of military experience, I can only urge my late appointment to the command of the militia in this State, in excuse of addressing you upon a subject of such importance, but were my talents even equal to those of a Frederick, I could do but little towards forming a well regulated militia, without the confidence and aid of the people at large.

You will permit me to observe that, under a constitution calculated to render a people free and happy, the mutual consent and joint efforts of all are requisite in some instances to bring about that reform, which in a less happy country, may be accomplished by the arbitrary dictates of a despotic Prince.

With us, at this day a slender excuse, a defect in the militia laws or at the worst, a small fine, may exempt a person during life from appearing in the field, but the despot issues his orders and punishes the breach according to his own caprice, and as no person can conjecture the penalty, every subject fears to hazard the consequences of disobedience. Perhaps this may be one reason for the great success tyrants have had in enslaving so great a part of the human race.

In Republican governments, people often turn their thoughts to that part of the Constitution which bequeaths them their liberties, but too frequently forget that they ought to pursue measures for securing them.

We have already bravely purchased Liberty and Independence and now make part of an empire where freedom reigns without control, but what will our late struggles avail if we allow the military skill which we have acquired to expire, and ourselves to sleep in seeming safety, till the avarice, the jealousy, or ambition of some foreign Prince, rouses us from our slumber, and convinces us of our mistakes.

We often please ourselves by observing that this country is calculated for freedom and commerce, not for war—I sincerely join in that opinion, and most ardently wish it may ever remain such, but I have long since been convinced that the only way to keep peace is to be prepared for the worst events—if we mean to keep our neighbors' sword in the scabbard, we must whet our own. The citizens of every country, however desirous of peace, should always be prepared for war; and this never can be the case without a well regulated militia or a standing army. The latter, I am fully persuaded, is more dangerous to the liberties of any country than a foreign force and what I most ardently pray may never be established in the American States, in time of peace. If we approve not of a standing army, our militia must be taught the use of arms, or our safety will depend upon the peaceable disposition of our neighbors, and not upon any precautions or preparations of our own.

As I flatter myself, further arguments are not required to prove the necessity of disciplining and keeping up a regular and formidable militia.

I shall proceed to offer some remarks for your consideration. It is not my province to dictate. I can only recommend. All important regulations must be ordered or approved by the Commander-in-Chief, and even those orders must be consistent with the laws of the state. I shall, therefore, only urge upon the field officers already appointed, to lose no time in nominating their captains and subalterns, that in the choice of them they avail themselves as much of military talents and experience as possible.

I am far from wishing that no persons should be appointed but such as had military experience. On the contrary, I am persuaded that some gentlemen, who have never seen service, have naturally excellent military talents, and bid fair to make great and good officers. But where a person has military experience, another none, all other things being equal, it requires no uncommon share of sagacity to determine who should be preferred. I wish no person to be in office who is not likely to answer the purpose of his appointment.

Formerly the man of wealth and family was sought after without the least attention to capacity.

I readily grant that officers of every rank ought to be gentlemen and men of honor. If men of family, their advantages of education are generally greater, and if they are possessed of wealth and fortune, it is a most agreeable circumstance. But these alone can have but little weight without other qualifications still more essential.

The merchant will not hazard his ship to be navigated by a man merely because he is a man of wealth and family; nor the gentleman his watch in the hands of a person unskilled in the business of watchmaking, merely because he possesses a large estate, and it is really surprising that the most unbounded and the most important science, should be so lightly esteemed, as to entrust the teaching of it to persons totally unskilled and who have not even capacity to acquire a knowledge of it themselves.

But whatever appointments, the field officers may think proper to make, I earnestly recommend that they be made as soon as possible, and that the officers appointed, of every rank, use their utmost efforts to have the militia disciplined (in small parties) without delay.

And here let me entreat the influence of every gentleman who wishes well to his country, to lend his aid in promoting a business so essential as the preservation of his own rights and those of his fellow-citizens.

The law of the state enacts that every soldier shall be provided with a gun, bayonet, cartridge box, etc., but a uniformity of arms is much to be wished and I cannot think it impossible to procure such as were used by the late American Army. Many of them are now in the country, and I believe for sale in the public magazines, and if arms are to be purchased, I can see nothing but a little attention requisite in order to have them of the same kind.

A uniformity of dress will be allowed by every person who has the least military taste. This adds lustre to the troops, inspires them with military ambition, makes them appear respectable in the view of spectators and formidable in the eyes of their enemies, and this, in my opinion, is more easily obtainable than a uniformity of arms.

I would only propose for consideration, a dress almost similar to that worn by the troops of the German empire. A short coat of white woolen, and waistcoat of the same (of our own manufacture) faced and half-cuffed, with blue, red, crimson, or any other colour, the caps of the coat and the front of the waistcoat bound with quality of the same colour with the facing, and then a pair of linen overalls complete the dress. A single minute spent in calculation will prove this a much cheaper dress than the militia now appear in. If a person keeps a suit for public days, I can see no good reason why he should refuse the cheapest, and if he is able to keep but one, I believe a moment's reflection will convince him that he can appear more decent in one which he may wash as often as his shirts, than in a suit which by a single washing would be ruined. If it should be objected that it is not the fashion, my answer is, that officers and men once begin to come into it, it will soon become as fashionable here as it now is in Germany and

A MODERN FABLE

Footlight Favorite And Foolish Millionaire

AN ACTRESS, MABELLE GILMAN, THE HEROINE

William Ellis Corey Figures As Hero Of The Romance

PRECEDENTS FOR AFFAIR ARE BY NO MEANS LACKING

New York, May 11.—The fable of the footlight favorite and the foolish millionaire is the staple of gossip on Broadway these days. "Mocking Bird" Mabelle Gilman is the envied of all the "tenderloin bunch," as Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw would call it, while William Ellis Corey is—but what's the use of saying it.

Another chapter is to be added to this never-ending romance next week when, according to announcement, the millionaire president of the United States Steel corporation will make Miss Gilman his bride. What will the outcome be?

There are lots of precedents for the Gilman-Corey affair. In fact, it seems to be a favorite trick of men of millions to put away the wives of their poorer days when wealth opens the way to acquaintanceship with footlight queens.

William B. Leeds, the "tin plate king," had a wife in his little home in Richmond, Ind., long before he became a millionaire. She was a sweet, home-loving woman, who aided him to become rich. Then he met Mrs. Nannie Stewart Worthington, who was the wife of George B. Worthington of Cleveland. The couple had drifted apart and Mrs. Worthington listened willingly when Leeds suggested that she get a divorce. This accomplished, the "tin plate king" found an excuse to put aside his own wife and then married Mrs. Worthington.

In Paris, Antonio Torrey met the beautiful Sibyl Sanderson, a grand opera singer, born in California, but who made her reputation in France. Four years of litigation ensued before Torrey succeeded in getting his freedom. Then he married Miss Sanderson. He died shortly after, and his widow only survived him a short time.

Henry M. Flagler, one of the richest men in the United States, forced a complaisant Florida legislature to pass a law making insanity grounds for divorce. With this for an excuse, he put aside his wife and married a woman thirty-six years his junior. The former Mrs. Flagler is well provided for financially, lives in a handsome home on Riverside Drive, and Broadway thinks she got the better of the bargain.

Alan W. Wood, a Pittsburgh steel magnate and two times widower, married Goldie Mohr, a singer in the Weber and Fields company. He died shortly after and his widow inherited the bulk of his millions. And Broadway thinks Goldie was "the wise one."

The case of Harry Thaw might be cited, but after all it would be hardly fair to the young Pittsburgher. With all his faults it cannot be said that he put aside a wife in order to marry the young chorus girl. Broadway says give the devil his due.

But these few straggling instances, which might be multiplied many times over, show the allurement that women of the stage have for men of lately acquired wealth. The romance of Mr. Corey, however, presents this somewhat unusual feature. It was the belief of his associates in the steel corporation that he was the last man who would yield to the attraction of a stage queen. As the old father over in the little Pennsylvania town said, "they never thought Ellis would do it," but he did, or is going to.

From the time he took a place as worker on the coal tipple dumping cars at Braddock until the directors of the steel corporation made him president at a salary of $100,000 a year, Mr. Corey came into public notice only as an indefatigable worker. He gave fullest credit to his wife for a large portion of the success that came to him. This is the wife whom he put aside because of his love for Mabelle Gilman.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliancy which like the bloom from a flower which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. Few young women appreciate the shock of the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the check of its freshness and the form of its fulness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to this fact in renewed comeliness. More than a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and make its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve, nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Bad Symptoms. The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, even imaginary dark spots or streaks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing, distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally. No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional endorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as complete and correct.

In any condition of the female system Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of the "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors or medicine will, in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Doctor's All Agree. The most eminent writers on Altera Medica, whose works are consulted as authorities by physicians of all the different schools of practice, extol, in the most positive terms, the curative virtues of each and every ingredient entering into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In fact it is the only medicine, put up for sale through druggists, for the cure of all diseases of the mucous surfaces, as nasal catarrh, throat, laryngeal, and bronchial affections attended by lingering, or hang-on-coughs that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any amount of lay or non-professional testimonials.

Do not expect too much from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will not work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. Nor will the "Discovery" be good for a sudden attack of acute pneumonia, or for the lingering, obstinate, throat-cough, accompanying catarrhal throat, laryngeal and bronchial affections. It is a most efficacious remedy. In cases accompanied with wasting of flesh, night-sweats, weak stomach and poor digestion with faulty assimilation, and which, if neglected or badly treated are apt to lead to consumption, the "Discovery" has proven wonderfully successful in effecting cures.

The formula is printed on every wrapper of "Golden Medical Discovery," attested as to correctness under oath, and you can't afford to accept any substitute of unknown composition for this non-interest remedy no matter what selfish interests may prompt the dealer to urge such upon you. In fact it is an insult to your intelligence for him to do so. You know what you want and it is his place to supply that want.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They cleanse, invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels, curing biliousness and constipation. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce may be consulted by letter free of charge. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW YORK (Incorporated)

Mabelle Gilman has been more or less known to the stage in New York and London for a dozen years. She was born in San Francisco and she had her own way to make in the world. Her first engagement was with Augustin Daly's company. She understudied Virginia Earle in the Gelsa company. Later she appeared in musical comedy, and subsequently won some popularity in "Dolly Varden," "Amorelle" and other plays. The most striking incident in her career, aside from the mention of her name in the divorce proceedings of the first Mrs. Corey, who obtained her decree of separation, with charge of her son, on July 30 last, may be said to be the publication of several love letters addressed to her by the Crown Prince of Siam, who met her in London when she was playing in "The Belle of New York." These letters were couched in the most extravagantly language, and even contained selections of poetry.

Rumor once had Miss Gilman engaged to marry Dan McAvoy, the comedian, but if the betrothal ever existed it was broken. After one of her numerous fits with managers, Miss Gilman said:

"The only contract I have not yet broken is the marriage contract. I was never married. So there's no knowing."

And that's what Broadway says. "There's no knowing."

MICHIGAN MAY COME.

Game With Dartmouth in New Hampshire Is Possible.

Ann Arbor, May 10.—Whether or not Michigan will go to New Hampshire next Fall to play Dartmouth on the gridiron is still an uncertain question. Coach Yost was asked about the probability of a game with Dartmouth today, and said it would all depend on the policy of the board of control, but thought a game unlikely. Michigan is evidently awaiting the June meeting of the representatives of the Big Nine before she bargains for any certain games.

The requests from Annapolis and Dartmouth for games next season have stirred up more interest in the gridiron sport, and although spring football practice was discontinued the first of this week by Coach Yost, he left orders with a lot of the aspirants for the position of quarterback to get a ball and practice all spring and summer.

News that Minnesota has defied the conference with reference to playing Nebraska under non-conference rules, is good news here, as one more influence which will be working for the reaction with Michigan will surely tug for at the June session of Big Nine representatives.

IS TO BE COMMENDED

One of the greatest improvements that we have noted in a long time at the North End is the painting of J. L. O. Coleman's house and buildings on Deer and Russell streets. They are painted a bronze green with light trimmings and the fine old Colonial house stands out in bold relief, certainly an ornament to the neighborhood and the town. This is one of the old and historic houses of the town and Mr. Coleman is to be commended for his fine care of the place.

SUPERIOR COURT.

The case of Connor vs. the Portsmouth Brewing Company was finished in Superior court at Exeter on Friday afternoon. The counsel finished their argument in the afternoon and the jury was still out when Judge Wallace left for his home at two o'clock, leaving instructions for the jury to submit a sealed verdict. The jury came out at about three o'clock and the verdict was taken by the clerk and will be opened when court convenes on Monday.

The first case for next week is that of Peckham vs. Freeman. This is an action for damage brought by Mrs. Peckham of this city against Harry Freeman, owner of the Freeman's block, for injuries alleged to have been received by falling down the stairs of the hall, because, she alleges, the hall was not properly lighted.

RYAN TO RAISE PEANUTS IN HIS CONGO DISTRICT

NEW YORK.—When Thomas F. Ryan interests himself in any enterprise he is more than likely to get everything out of it that can be made to yield a profit. When he acquired the 70,000 acres in the Congo district it was generally supposed that he would be satisfied with the gold, copper and rubber in sight there. But Mr. Ryan, as a Virginian, knows the potentiality of rich soil, and as there would be many thousands of idle acres in the Congo principality which he had acquired, and as this idle land would not yield any of the three great crops from which the greater part of his profit was supposed to come, he determined to put it to practical use. Virginia is a great peanut state. The soil conditions in Mr. Ryan's Congo domain are peculiarly well fitted for peanut culture. The best-paying grade of peanuts that come from the Virginia market are the so-called jumbo variety, a large, rich nut, abounding in oil and general all-around nutrition.

Mr. Ryan is going to raise jumbo peanuts in his mid-African property. These jumbo peanuts will bring a big price in this market and will be instrumental in breaking many a corner as now engineered by the shellers in Mr. Ryan's own state. Men with all technical agricultural knowledge of the matter have been sent to the Congo.

Probably the most used peanut is what is called the Spanish, an offshoot of what used to be exclusively grown in Spain. This is the little round peanut so much used for salting. In Virginia a greater part of the crop grown there is called Spanish No. 1.

When the crop is short in Virginia the original Spanish is imported from Spain, but, in fact, it is grown in northern Africa. The conditions of the Virginia soil make it superior for this nut over any other section in the world except the Congo district.

The jumbo variety brings the highest price, however, and naturally it was that variety that Mr. Ryan selected for his crop. He will later grow the Spanish peanut, which, although cheaper, has a greater sale than the jumbo. But Mr. Ryan's advisers, knowing that the jumbo would have the greater sale if the price were lower, have advised him to try that grade first. And that is the grade that Mr. Ryan will grow in the Congo district, and from the proceeds thereof he hopes to be able to pay no inconsiderable part of the expenses of the working of his rubber plantations, gold mines and copper enterprises. It is said that Mr. Ryan will go to the Congo before very long.

COREY RENTS HOUSE AND WILL SOON WED ACTRESS

ROUNDING out a romance that has as side issues a shock for Pittsburg society, thrills for New York and Paris, a bearing on the destiny of the world's biggest industrial concern and general interest for men and women the globe over, William Ellis Corey soon will take to 803 Fifth avenue as his bride Miss Mabelle Gilman, the actress and singer.

Corey was reelected president of the United States Steel Corporation, largely through his own ability and the influence of H. C. Frick. His retention in that position at his record salary of $100,000 a year is considered to be sufficient vindication of his usefulness to the company and of the fact that his standing as a business man had not been affected by his domestic troubles.

But it is said to be possible that even that large salary will be increased heavily and that Corey may go down in history as the most highly paid corporation officer in the world. At any rate, the steel man's plans show he is resolved on asserting himself not only in business but in society. He has leased the Fifth avenue house from Mrs. James E. Martin, who is going abroad for a year.

It is not the most pretentious building in "millionaires' row," but it is the best dwelling Corey can get in New York in the wealthy district and the fact that he has leased it only for 12 months is taken as an indication that he will provide a more elaborate home for his bride by the time they are ready to make their first attack on the inner fortifications of metropolitan society.

The present plan is that Miss Gilman shall be married to Corey in Paris. Cable dispatches of recent days have told of extensive purchases made by her in the bazaars and jewelry stores of the French capital's most fashionable district and the domestic wires have quoted her relatives as saying they would cross the ocean to see her become Corey's bride.

ONE CHURCH IN GOTHAM THAT IS ALWAYS FILLED

IN view of the appeal of a delegation of New York clergymen to President Roosevelt to aid them in inducing the people of the metropolis to attend religious services it is interesting to note that there is one church in New York that is not troubled by the problem of filling its pews, perhaps for the reason that it is an altogether new church, based upon the doctrine of the brotherhood and interdependence of man, and uniting all creeds while advocating none. The "People's Church," as it is called, flourishes in the midst of the East side population, under the auspices of the People's Institute. Its meetings are held during 25 or 30 weeks of the year in the large hall of Cooper Union, and not infrequently the attendance is 2,000 or more.

SQUAD OF SPIES TRAIL POLICE FORCE OF CITY

GEN. BINGHAM has completed the organization of a corps of secret police, a squad as faithful and watchful as the secret police of the czar of Russia. Not a move can be made by any member of the police force of Greater New York but will be reported to the commissioner.

Every member is under the eye of this secret force, and the commissioner now knows more about the inside workings of the department than he ever dreamed of before.

This is the first time in the history of America that the head of a police department has found it necessary to resort to a system of spies. The new force has been recruited from other large cities, and not one of them is known to the regular members of the

New York force. Several large private detective agencies were called upon to furnish members of the force, and only the best trained plain clothes men have been accepted.

Just how long this force of secret police has been at work no one knows except the commissioner and the men themselves. The regular members of the force, captains and inspectors, know they are being watched, and they have sent men out on the trail, but they have not yet been able to trace one member of the new force.

It was declared that the recent raid upon the headquarters of the Police-men's Benevolent association in which $82,000 in cash was uncovered, was the result of information gathered by one of the members of the new force.

HEIR TO THRONE

Child Who Will One

BORN ON FRIDAY IN OLD
MADRID

Will Be Given The Name Of His Father, Alfonso

SAID TO BEAR STRONG RESEMBLANCE TO HIS ROYAL MOTHER

Madrid, May 10.—Queen Victoria gave birth to a son today, and all Spain is rejoicing. He will be named Alfonso.

Thousands waited in the vicinity of the palace from midnight when the approach of the royal stork was first heralded, until the afternoon when the royal castles of Castile flew from the palace flagstaff to announce the birth of the Prince of the Asturias.

The birth of the royal babe has been awaited with eager interest throughout Spain. This was intensified early this morning when the first word came from the palace that the announcement of the Queen was imminent. The news spread like wildfire, and crowds flocked to the great plaza fronting the royal palace.

The happy event had taken the capital somewhat by surprise, for only yesterday afternoon the Queen had taken her customary drive, and the court physicians had intimated that another two weeks would elapse before confinement.

The birth of the babe occurred at 12:45 p. m. The announcement was immediately conveyed to the waiting officials, and crowds outside the palace, who received the glad tidings with mingled feelings and enthusiasm and emotion. That the Queen had been blessed with a son—a male heir to the throne—was no less welcome than the happy event itself.

In no monarchical country in the world is the ceremonial observed at the birth of the first offspring of the King and Queen so rigidly, stately and formal as in Spain, and on this occasion, so significant for the Bourbon dynasty, when an heir to the throne was so anxiously awaited, nothing was omitted from the courtly etiquette.

From the moment when Queen Victoria was officially announced to be

CAUSE AND CURE OF APPENDICITIS

THE SIMPLE REMEDY THAT EFFECTS THE CURE

Professor Blanchard of the French Academy of Medicine has spent a great amount of time studying that dread disease—Appendicitis. In company with Professor Metchnikoff, he has carefully examined numerous cases, and both have reached the conclusion that the cure is not the knife. In more than forty cases the symptoms of Appendicitis disappeared after the patients had been treated for worms.

There are, no doubt, many persons suffering from worms who are erroneously attributing their trouble to some other cause. A few doses of Dr. True's Elixir are sufficient in most cases for the complete expulsion of the worms. The presence of these parasites is easily recognized by the following symptoms: indigestion; foul tongue; offensive breath; variable appetite; hard and full belly with occasional griping and pains about the navel; heavy, dull eyes; itching of the nose; dry cough; grinding of the teeth during sleep; slow and frequent fever in children—convulsions and bed wetting. Dr. True's Elixir will not only expel the worms, but will build up the whole system as well.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR THE OLD FAMILY REMEDY

has been in constant use for more than half a century. Even though no worms may be present, Dr. True's Elixir prevents their growth and is an invaluable remedy for the relief of stomach ailments. It is a powerful tonic, brings back a feeble and impaired digestion; purifies and enriches the blood; quickly regulates a disordered liver.

Dr. True's Elixir is used and endorsed by physicians and hospitals all over the country. Read what Mrs. Joy says of Dr. True's Elixir:

CENTRE BRINGTON, MASS.
DR. TRUE:—"I wish to inform you of the success I have had in using one bottle of your Elixir. I gave it to my children, and after the third dose one of them passed a long round worm. I also wish to say it is one of the safest and best medicines to have in the house for children. I would not be without it now." Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Henry C. Joy.

Dr. True's Elixir is sold by druggists everywhere at 35c, 60c, and $1.00 a bottle. An interesting and instructive booklet entitled "Children and Their Doctors" will be sent free to all who apply for it by simply addressing Dr. J. C. True & Co., Auburn, Me. approaching the period of maternity the most careful surveillance was exercised over her, in order that the hopes of the country should not run any risk of being blighted.

The child is described as being a robust blonde and as having his mother's complexion.

Almost immediately after the birth had been announced a Te Deum was chanted in the chapel of the palace, where the hold sacrament had remained exposed throughout the accomplishment of the Queen.

In accordance with traditions, shortly after the birth of the heir to the throne the King will confer various decorations on the grandees of Spain and the commander of the palace guard who were on duty at the time of the birth. The halberdier who was on guard at the door of the Queen's bedchamber when the child was born, will also be decorated, and in addition will receive the piece of gold known as the Onza, which will also be presented to all the other halberdiers at the palace.

Remedy for Warts.

A old remedy for warts is made by mixing two drams of soap cerate and a quarter of a dram each of powdered salin and powdered verdigris. Mix and spread on a piece of kid the size of the wart and bind on over night. It will burn and eat off the wart. It may be necessary to repeat the application in a week. If the burning continues apply oxide of zinc ointment.

An Early Hair Restorer.

A remedy for baldness has recently been found by a learned Egyptologist, inscribed in a papyrus. It is said to have been used by King Chata, the second sovereign of the first dynasty. The recipe is as follows: "A mixture of dogs' paws, dates and asses' hoofs, ground up and cooked in oil. The head is to be rubbed vigorously with the preparation.—Family Doctor.

Misbehaving Moon.

Papa had shown Ethel the full moon the night before. It was her first sight and she seemed greatly impressed. Next morning, as soon as she was out of bed, she ran to the window and gazed at the sky for a few moments. The sky was streaked with white clouds. She called out: "O, papa, come quick; the moon has scratched the sky all up."

Childish Rebellion.

I have a little friend five years old, that I call Buster. His mother had punished him, and some time after a friend of his mother was calling and said to Buster: "Are you not glad you have such a nice mother?" He replied promptly: "If you had a mother who whipped her children as she whips me I don't believe you would think her nice."

ANCIENT APPEAL.

Turkey, where the best troops almost in the world are clad with it.

If it should be objected that this kind of clothing cannot be kept clean, the answer is that even without washing they are more easily kept so than any other—whiting, flour, wheat, bran, and chalk, used in the French army, even in our own, kept white uniforms decent and clean, which would not admit of washing, and gave them a better and neater appearance than clothing of any color.

The operation which this must have respecting the balance of trade, ought to be a powerful motive for adopting it, as almost the whole, if not all the materials for this uniform, may be manufactured among ourselves.

If we allow twenty thousand militia in this state, and that this dress will cost each man five dollars, and that each suit will last a year, there will be one hundred thousand dollars kept among us, which if we clothed in foreign manufactures, must be drawn out of the country. If we reckon for ten years, a million of dollars will be saved to this single state. I am well aware of the argument too often opposed to this, viz: That if a man can purchase foreign manufactures cheaper than those of his own country, it is better for him as an individual. If I was to admit this argument to be just, it would only prove that people may sometimes adopt a conduct to serve themselves, which tends to ruin the society to which they belong, and that this if granted in its full force must have that operation, will soon be discovered by reflecting on the fatal consequences if every member in the community was to adopt it.

Our own manufactures would cease, idleness be introduced, and all our calculating cash drawn away to pay for the labor and materials of other nations. No great force of reasoning is requisite to prove that any country that imports three millions annually in foreign articles, and exports only two, will be one million in arrears. This balance must either remain unpaid, or the circulating medium of the other country drawn away to discharge it.

The balance of trade against a nation, like a whirlpool, draws off the circulating cash and leaves the people "poor indeed." This among others (which is not my province to name) is a great cause of the scarcity of money among us at this day and is one principal foundation of our present distress. We feel the evil and complain, though very few attempt to discover its source. But I will now endeavor to demonstrate that it not only tends to impoverish a nation but even those individuals who conceive they are saving their interest by purchasing foreign manufactures at a cheap rate.

If this conduct has a tendency to distress the nation at large, to drain it of cash and to leave the poor debtors with their effects at the mercy of the rich and powerful, or rather in the hands of foreign merchants, or their agents here, how much will the pretended saving avail them? Their real personal estate will be reduced in value, and in order to raise the cash to pay for articles which they fondly conclude are purchased at advantageous terms, double the quantity of either of these articles will be requisite for raising money to pay the demand.

If, therefore, a great saving might be made to the state, by clothing in uniforms of our own manufacture, if individuals must feel the advantages and if the corps would appear much more respectable, will not the militia of New Hampshire do themselves the highest honor by accepting a measure which, while it added brilliancy to them as troops, would contribute so largely towards enriching their country. Having proposed this subject for your consideration, I shall now address myself to the gentlemen of talents and capacity, who may have the offer of commissions. Some, perhaps, may decline, because they have ample fortunes, and wish to enjoy life in ease and tranquility. Others will allege their having held equal or even superior commissions in the army, or elsewhere, and many may urge the expense attending an office as sufficient objection against holding it.

If the first of these arguments had been adopted at the commencement of the late war we should not at this moment have even the shadow of liberty to contend for. If the second was to prevail, I think no person could urge it with more propriety than myself. The third objection is only rendered formidable by a practice too common in America under former constitutions, which I trust will never take place under the present. Formerly in many of the United States a muster day often presented a scene of feasting and not of military exhibitions, the principal of feers, instead of attending to the duties of the day were employed in preparing and ordering an expensive entertainment for spectators and officers, while the soldiers were left to burn powder to no purpose, to march without order, to be spectators of an untimely feast, and to return home without acquiring any other knowledge than that which arose from seeing the near resemblance between a general muster and a riot.

I am far from wishing muster days to be considered as days of feasting, either for officers, soldiers or spectators. They are days of exhibiting military skill, for acquiring a knowledge of maneuvers and not for feasting or revelling. Judicious spectators will be better pleased with a cold collation, provided at little expense, with a display of military acquirements, than with a regular feast, without having a sight of the performances they came to view. Officers will have less trouble and be able to perform their duty with ease and without confusion. Soldiers can be more regaled by having refreshment provided for them to partake of at proper intervals than by seeing the most luxuriant tables spread with costly food, of which they can have but little, if any, share, and will undoubtedly be better pleased to have their time taken up in the proper business of the day than in that which has no relation to it. If the militia mean to become soldiers they must act the part of such in acquiring the necessary knowledge. If they wish to become the strength and safety of their country they should avoid every practice, however ancient, which has a tendency to prevent their obtaining the object in view. If the plan herein recommended should be adopted the objection relative to expense will, in a great measure, lose its force.

Many people suppose a militia can never be equal to troops in a regular standing army and, therefore, will not hazard the attempt which they suppose to be in vain, but stubborn facts destroy the supposition. The militia of the Swiss Cantons are equal, if not superior, to the standing forces of their neighbors and the Prussian army, so formidable in Europe, is nothing more than a well regulated militia. The voice of the people calls them to the field. Three months are taken up in disciplining them, in passing the reviews. They are then forthrightened for nine months of the year, during which time they work at their respective occupations without being called upon, unless in case of invasion or actual war. I know so much time of the yeomanry in this country cannot be spent, but much more than has ever yet been spent might be devoted to a business so important without being sensibly felt and I cannot avoid urging this in the most pressing terms at a time when, however desirous we may be of a lasting peace, war does not, in my view, appear at a great distance. If any gentleman should differ in sentiment and can assign a satisfactory reason for the British refusing to give up the important posts on our frontiers, ceded to us by treaty, I shall then with pleasure change my opinion and my fears on that head will be at an end.

In order to prepare for every event if in every neighborhood the officers and soldiers were to assemble one or two hours in a week to practice the use of arms and regularly attend on the proper muster days, they would soon become expert in the art of war, be a terror to every ambitious power and render themselves able and skilful guardians of those liberties purchased by the blood of their brethren and the treasures of their country.

CITY COUNCIL

Meets And Does Considerable Business

WILL LEASE RUSSELL STREET PROPERTY

Crown Tail Moth Contract Finished -- Petitions Granted

MAYOR HAS BORROWED $60,000 SO FAR -- FRUIT PEDLARS' LICENSES

A regular meeting of the city council was held on Friday evening with Mayor Hackett in the chair and the full board present.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mayor Hackett read a letter from President Tuttle of the Boston and Maine railroad in reference to the leasing of the railroad property at the corner of Vaughan and Russell streets. He would lease it to the city to make the necessary street improvement, but suggested that the railroad ought not to be expected to pay taxes on the property while the city was using it.

On motion of Councilman Payne, the Mayor was authorized to make such a lease and to abate the taxes while the city was using the land.

A bill of M. C. Foye for $6 for removing the brown tail moths in front of his property on the corner of Highland and Middle streets was read by the Mayor, who said he did not understand it. He thought Mr. Foye might send in his bill for his laundry.

On motion of Councilman Ward, he was given leave to withdraw his bill. An invitation of the Storor Post, G. A. R., for the city council to take part in the Memorial day celebration was accepted.

A communication from the assessors called the attention of the board to a mistake made by a former board in the taxes of Florence Gibbs on Banfield road, by which the city had taxed her for a house belonging to somebody else, and had sold the property for taxes. It was a mistake and the tax deed was ordered removed from the records.

The petition of Hiram Weaver for leave to keep a gasoline supply on Park street, stored under ground and thirty feet away from the building, was read, and also the petitions of Thomas E. Call and W. E. Pickett to keep gasoline on Market street. Mayor Hackett said that these petitions would have to be acted on; that it had been understood that if gasoline was stored thirty feet away from a building it covered the new ordinance. He had not looked into the matter, but proposed to have the ordinance so that the city would have control of the storage of gasoline.

The petitions were referred to the committee on fire department.

Petition of the Portsmouth Gas Company asked leave to open the asphalt on Congress street to connect their new store with the gas main, they agreeing to pay the Barber Asphalt Company to replace the street after the job had been done. A letter from the Barber Asphalt Company to the Gas Company gave their permission and suggesting that the work be done at once, as their repair gang would shortly visit this city and they would want to finish the job then.

It was referred to the committee on streets with power, they to find out how soon the Barber Asphalt Company would be here to make the repairs.

Petition of the abutters on Sudbury street, asking the city to accept the street, and that they would deed over the property, was read. Councilman Newick thought that the abutters should put the street in condition before it was transferred. On motion it was referred to the city solicitor to draw the necessary papers.

Petition of the Jewish residents of the city, through Louis Slosburg, for permission to have a cemetery on Solomon road, off the Peverley Hill road, was granted.

Petition of the J. Ward estate to open Langdon and McDonough streets to enter the sewer, was granted on condition that the fee be paid in advance.

Petition of E. N. McNabb to encumber Judd street for building purposes was granted.

Petition of Miss Theodore Lyman for a relay of curbing about her property on Austin and Middle streets, was referred to the committee on streets with power.

Did You Take It?

If you have not already done so, get from any good pharmacy the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take for each dose one teaspoonful of the mixture after your meals and at bedtime; also drink plenty of water.

This is the most simple though remarkable prescription ever written to cleanse the blood of impurities and waste matter, and now is the time to take it. It acts as a powerful tonic to the kidneys, forcing them to filter out the acids and poisons, overcoming Rheumatism, Bladder and Urinary troubles and the hundred and one other miserable afflictions resulting from sour, impure blood.

A well-known local druggist states that never to his knowledge has there been any such valuable advice offered a community, and predicts this will prove shortly one of the healthiest places in the world. Men and women of all stations of life are making up the prescription and taking it, which can but insure better health and less disease here shortly.

Show this to your yellow and sallow complexioned acquaintances, or those who never feel well and hearty. It's their bad blood, and they will thank you for this information.

Petition of J. P. McCaffery to open Richards avenue to repair a drain, was granted.

Petition of E. J. Brown for the removal of a tree on State street was referred to the Tree Warden.

Petition of Mary C. Taylor and others for a sewer on Howard street was referred to the committee on sewers to report.

There were four petitions for renewals of junk licenses, and it opened up a discussion. Mayor Hackett said that he was opposed to so many licenses being granted, as it opened the door to dishonesty. Councilman Boynton said that when the ordinance was revised it was proposed to limit the licenses and to make the fee considerably larger. On motion, it was at first voted to grant two of the licenses, but this was finally changed and all were granted.

Councilman Payne reported that he had sold by auction the property on Pleasant street and the old bath house. On his motion the Mayor was authorized to sign the deeds for the same. Mr. Adams, the purchaser of the Pleasant street property, wanted seven feet more land to square his lot, and this will be granted in the original deed.

Mayor Hackett reported that the brown tail moth gatherers would get through Saturday evening. It had cost the city $381.82, with an addition at expense of $13.13 for hardware supplies.

Councilman Lyons reported that the committee on sewers were in favor of the extension of the sewer on McNabb court and opposed to the sewer on Sparhawk street. The report was accepted.

Councilman Payne stated that Mr. Shea had for years leased the property about the Pest House for pasture land at a rental of $30, and now he would pay $35 for the same. The Mayor was authorized to make a lease for one year.

Deeds of tax sales held by the city amounting to over $11,000 were read, and on motion were referred to the special committee who are working out some plan to take care of the back taxes.

Councilman Boynton called attention to the fact that there is considerable insurance coming due June first, and he thought that much of it could be reduced. For instance, the city farm building was insured for $10,000. It was referred to the Committee on City Lands and Buildings to make such reductions as possible and to renew the insurance.

On motion of Councilman Cater, the City Marshal was instructed to enforce the new law in regard to fruit pedlars' licenses. Councilman Eastman suggested that the one cent ice cream carts be required to take out a license.

The Mayor stated that the circus would have a portion of the city farm for May 17, and while bids had been called for the fifteenth, the leases would be made with that provision.

The Auditors report of bills amounting to $3,006.34 were ordered paid. Mayor Hackett read a few of the bills, some for the goods they called for and others the firms the bills were to be paid to.

The payroll for June and estimated expenses, including the purchase of 1000 feet of hose, were approved.

The Mayor said that up to the present time he had been forced to borrow $50,000 on notes, the majority due the first week in August. He had borrowed the money from local banks.

Councilman Curtis asked if the Water Commissioner was not to be elected at this meeting. Mayor Hackett said that any time would do in May, and he thought it better to go over until the council had a chance to consult over the matter. On motion it was laid over, for the next meeting.

The city will bid in the taxes that are sold May 15.

On motion it was voted to adjourn until May 23.

Arion A. Ballou, machinist, of 391 Bennett street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "For some time my kidneys had been out of order and the pain and annoyance increased instead of diminishing. I got so bad that I could not attend to my work. There was a constant pain in my back over the kidneys, and any movement caused sharp twinges through the loins. I thought Doan's Kidney Pills might help me and got a box at Phillips' drug store. These brought immediate relief and in a short time the pain was entirely gone. I gave a statement for publication at that time, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and I am pleased to allow you to continue using my name. Since I gave you the first testimonial I have had a few slight attacks of backache, but Doan's Kidney Pills have always done me the same good that they did when I first tried them."

ASSISTANT TO JEROME

FRANK GARVAN IS MAN WHO PREPARES CASES.

Weeks and Months of Work Are Often Necessary to Prepare for Trial That Lasts but a Few Days.

New York.—There was a trial in the criminal courts building a short time ago in which it took two days to present the evidence to the jury. It was a trial of some importance to the community and for that reason there was some comment on the speed with which it was disposed of. Nothing was said about the time that had been taken in preparing the case from the standpoint of the prosecution. As a matter of fact, two members of the district attorney's staff had been engaged for two months in examining witnesses and getting the evidence in shape.

When the public hears of a trial that lasts two weeks, or perhaps six weeks, little attention is paid to the days and weeks there are put in whipping the case into shape.

There is a young man in the district attorney's office to-day who has had practically sole charge of preparing five of the most important criminal cases in recent years. He is Francis P. Garvan, an assistant district attorney. It is no exaggeration to say that he has had a wider knowledge of the inside history of the Nan Patterson murder trial, the second Roland B. Molineux trial, Albert T. Patrick's fight for life, the Dodge-Morse marriage and divorce tangle and the Shaw case than any other man.

It has been his job to get these cases ready for presentation to the jury, and while that was being done he has had charge of the homicide bureau in the district attorney's office in addition to prosecuting makers of fraudulent claims against fire insurance companies and taking the routine court work which every member of Mr. Jerome's staff has to do in his turn.

FRANCIS P. GARVAN.
(Assistant District Attorney of New York City.)

Mr. Garvan is a young man, a few years past the 30 mark. He looks younger, almost boyish. An observer of the Shaw trial pictured him as "the man behind the gun." He was promptly dismissed District Attorney Jerome in some important technical piece of evidence in the case. More than once Mr. Jerome has spoken of the careful and painstaking manner in which this young man, who was an athlete at Yale and got his early legal training in the office of Col. James, got in shape all the evidence concerning the killing of Stanford White by Harry K. Shaw.

"I never knew of a case better prepared," was one remark made by Mr. Jerome.

In every criminal case, especially the ones that are taken up by the newspapers, an enormous amount of anonymous information is sent to the district attorney's office. If the case is properly prepared all this information, unless it is absurd on its face, must be investigated. It has often been the case that information furnished anonymously has been very valuable.

Scores of witnesses who think they have something to tell are examined only to show that they know nothing of value, but are seeking notoriety and feel that by being a witness of some kind they will be able to get into the court every day and hear the trial. Then there are cranks who look sane enough, but have only theories which they expound as facts. In every recalled "big" case these persons have to be disposed of before any real work is done, and all through the preparation of the case they have to be eliminated.

It requires enthusiasm, tenacity, cleverness, a knowledge of the law and human nature and common sense to prepare a difficult case. It is all done in the office, where the flashlight is shut off. One of the essential things is to keep from the public, and therefore from the lawyers for the defendant, what is going on—unless it helps the prosecution's side of it.

Mr. Garvan possesses all these qualities. He has a great capacity for work—work that means many sleepless nights. To his friends he is known as Pete, Mike or Pat Garvan as fancy dictates. Through it all he remains young—so young that a district attorney from a western city, a veteran of many cases, remarked when Mr. Garvan was pointed out to him at one of the trials:

"So that is Garvan, who has been mentioned in our home papers so often. He is a mere boy."

HISTORIC HUNDRED OAKS.

Handsome Country Home in Tennessee—see the Retreat of Paulist Fathers.

Memphis.—The many prominent families of Tennessee who were entertained at Hundred Oaks, the historic country home of former Gov. Albert S. Marks, near Winchester, Tenn., during the life of that statesman would hardly recognize the beautiful old place should they visit it again. The stately oak trees have never been touched by the ax and the outward appearance is about the same as it was when Gov. Marks entertained dignitaries there so lavishly, but the interior has seen a revolution.

Hundred Oaks is now the retreat of the Paulist Fathers of the Roman

Home of the Paulist Fathers.

Catholic church and the interior of the place has been changed to meet the tastes of that sect. For many years Hundred Oaks was, and, perhaps, is yet, the handsomest home in Tennessee, and its history is about as interesting as the place is beautiful. The castle, it might be called, sits in the center of an elevated plat of ground of about 20 acres, heavily wooded. Oak predominates, hence the name.

Some years before the war, the Hunt family, one of the wealthiest in middle Tennessee, bought the place and erected the first brick residence built in that section. It was then a two-story but pretty house. The civil war brought conditions that broke up the family fortune and the place was purchased by Gov. Albert S. Marks soon after the war. He moved there and occupied it as his home, rebuilding it at the same time. The place was completed as it now appears in about 1872. It was handsomely finished in hardwood and the old English hall contained one of the finest libraries in Tennessee. Gov. Marks loved company and frequently had many guests there for weeks at a time. Some 17 years ago the place passed to Gov. Marks' son, Arthur, who married Miss Mary Hunt, uniting the lineage of the first owner with the new. A few years later Arthur Marks sold the place to the Paulist Fathers, having been converted to that faith, and it has been made the principal retreat for the order in America. Priests of that faith come there from every quarter of the United States, and spend their allotted time in reconsecration services and recreation.

tag of materials, and he is a corresponding member of numerous societies on that subject. He is a native of Boston, being born in 1848. His father was an Italian from Palermo, while his mother was from Vermont. From the time of his appointment to an instructorship in applied mechanics in 1871 at the institute of technology, his life has been steady in his chosen profession. Since 1883 he has been in full charge of the mechanical engineering course, one of the most important in the curriculum.

His greatest work is his book on applied mechanics with which all students of engineering are familiar to a greater or less degree.

THE TOMB OF CHRIST

IT HAS BEEN A BATTLEFIELD FOR CENTURIES.

Jealous Monks Continue to Riot Over Keating Place of Prince of Peace—Arrangements Made with the Sultan.

London.—In the one place in all the world where noise of strife should be forever hushed, and only sounds of worship be heard, men met in bloody battle recently. Crucifixes and censers were the weapons, Franciscan and Armenian monks were the combatants, and the scene of the struggle was the tomb of Christ.

For a brief time the battlefield of the crusades echoed again to the sound of clashing arms, the groans of the wounded, the cheers of the victors. But this was not a battle of believer against unbeliever, heathen versus Christian. The contestants were monks sworn to teach the doctrines of the Prince of Peace.

The bone of contention is a desire to control the sacred sepulcher. It was this ambition that brought the Crusaders swarming from all Europe, and now a form of the same desire has the monks of the Franciscan order and the Armenian branch forever at each other's throats.

They quarrel over the right to sweep off the steps, and the Greeks, though they had little part in bringing the tomb of Christ under Christian control, have profited so skillfully by the quarrels of France with Turkey, that they have ingratiated themselves with the Pasha till he is regarded as their silent ally.

In this last battle one sacristan had his skull smashed in with a heavy censer, and a number of the combatants went to hospitals for treatment. So frequent have the quarrels been in the last decade that often Turkish soldiers have been forced to intervene.

French, Greek and Italian consuls have at times been dragged into the controversies that resulted from these outbreaks. Apparently no permanent peace is ever to come to the tomb of Him who as his cardinal doctrine taught the law of peace.

For the events that made the tomb of Christ a permanent battleground the devout Helena and Emperor Constantine are indirectly responsible, though the motives that led them to Jerusalem were the holiest.

First Helena embraced Christianity, and then converted her son, Emperor Constantine. Once in the faith he made it his resolve that Jerusalem, city of the holiest deed in the world's history, should not be neglected. With reverent care Constantine and Helena sought out all the spots that were identified with the Holy Passion and erected on them churches and suitable memorials.

Over the spot where the cross was placed a chapel was erected, and the sacred wood itself was retained in Jerusalem by Helena and placed under the great basilica or church erected by Constantine over the place of Christ's burial.

The erection of these buildings, particularly the church, made Jerusalem a place of pilgrimage, such as it has remained to this day. For 300 peaceful years the cross remained at the Basilica, and nothing but the warping songs and prayers of the faithful resounded over the sacred stones.

In 614 warfare and slaughter came upon the holy spot. Jerusalem was stormed by the Persian king, Chosroes II. The Christians made their bravest defense at the door of the church, but were defeated, and the tomb of the Saviour was the prey of heathen. Fourteen years later, Emperor Heraclius regained possession of the tomb for the Christian faith.

Even the end of the wars between the Muslims and the Christians did not bring peace, for the Saracens control was disputed by other heathen nations. The Manchukos took the city in 1532. The Turks recovered it in 1517 by the valor of Sultan Selim. The son of this leader, Soliman, built the wall that now surrounds the city.

At last, being unable to occupy the name of the secess of the Holy Passion, the Christian nations made an agreement with the sultan by which they ceded his right to control, but got in return permission to worship there, and to have the sacred basilica in charge of Christian priests.

But even this has not brought peace to the tomb, and strife and hatred still reign where only love and worship should be.

SAVES FORTUNE FROM WAGES.

Massachusetts Man Lays By $10,000 From Meager Income.

Boston.—Octave Girard of Ware, Mass., boasts of a fortune of $10,000 after working 27 years without missing a day for wages that were never more than $1.25 a day. During this time Mr. and Mrs. Girard have brought 18 children into the world and cared for them well. They have lived thrifty, but not in a niggardly fashion, and Mrs. Girard's housewifely skill has done much to stretch her husband's income over such a large family.

For the last few years Girard has been a coachman in Ware, but he has now retired to enjoy a life of ease. Systematic saving was Girard's rule. He was born in Canada, and in his youth was much impressed by the fact that the old folk usually were considered incurable if they had no money. He says that while the young people took care of their parents, it was a burden for young married people, who had a right to their own lives and who had trials enough of their own to face without having to take on the support of the old folk. He resolved that no one need take care of him in his old age. He hustled to the United States with this idea in his mind, and arrived in Worcester, Mass., with only ten cents. He walked to Grafton, a distance of 16 miles, to get a job, and worked for a shoemaker for several years. Then he shipped on a whaling vessel and went around the world. When he returned he married a former sweetheart in Canada and settled down to save money. He saved a certain portion of his wages, no matter whether they increased or diminished, and when some of the children grew large enough to go to work they added to his savings by paying board money.

OCTAVE GIRARD.
(He Saved $10,000 Out of Wages of $1.25 a Day.)

Mrs. Girard aided greatly in buying raw wool, washing it, carding it and spinning it into cloth for their clothes. Instead of buying material from the stores. She also knew where and how to buy provisions, and a carefully tended market garden lessened the expenses of living.

Mr. Girard has made only one investment, but that was a successful one. He bought a piece of property for $900 and sold it a few years later for $1,500, but he has not cared to make money in that way since. He has preferred to stick to his principle of systematic saving.

"Marry a woman for her practical common sense instead of her doll face; leave liquor alone; have a steady job at small pay instead of an irregular job at large pay; don't increase your expenses as your salary increases," are the precepts which Mr. Girard lays down to the man who would accumulate a fortune.

REMARKABLE HORN SETTEE.

Trophies of the Chase Arranged in Ingenious Form.

San Antonio, Tex.—One of the most remarkable trophies of the chase is a settee which adorns the front gallery of a home in this city. It is made of the antlers of deer and elk shot by the owner. These antlers are among the most perfect specimens to be found anywhere. The settee is wide enough to hold two persons and has a back that rises six feet above the floor. The antlers are bolted together and so arranged as to form a comfortable seat. Only antlers are used in the construction of this settee, even the seat being formed of smaller specimens. The arrangement of the settee is ingenious to a degree that makes it an object of deep interest to visitors. It was made many years ago as a curious and effective manner of preserving the trophies of the chase.

IOWA CITY GETS FAME

FORT DODGE'S MOCK MARRIAGE ACT A NATIONAL JOKE.

Document Which Terrorized Bachelors and Spinsters Credited to Mayor—Best Ad. for Town Since Cardiff Giant.

Fort Dodge, Ia.—Not since the days of the Cardiff giant has Fort Dodge had such signal distinction heaped upon it as has been conferred through the introduction of the marriage ordinance in the city council recently. Not long ago people who did not know that there was such a place as Fort Dodge, Ia., are to-day talking about it. From almost every state in the union letters have poured in, either condemning the ordinance or upholding its originator in his purposes. The past few days the mayor's mail has been burdened with an unusually large number of letters from girls, who have asked him to put them in correspondence with some of the more eligible bachelors of the city, whom the mayor declares are growing entirely too numerous.

As is commonly the case with the unheard-of, some small incident can be traced to the beginning as the prime mover that suggested the idea, and the marriage ordinance in this case is no wise an exception. It all came from a small matter originating with the police force. On the force are two bachelors, Peter McCabe and John Qualey, who have had to endure the expense of all "layoff" on account of the other members being married, and the mayor favored them. Both of these men protested at the discrimination, and at last the mayor suggested that the only way in which they could be placed on an even footing with the other members of the department was for them to get married. They again protested that it was not reasonable that they should be singled out for compulsory marriage, and no one else, whereupon the mayor declared that he would make the thing general.

No one who looks at Mayor Bennett's picture would pick him out as a joker, but there is not a man in all Iowa who enjoys a joke more than he. It was not intended that the ordinance should have any further attention, and while the local papers used it as a feature of the council proceedings, there was nothing more thought of it until outside papers copied it and letters of inquiry began to arrive. From that on the joke grew to such proportions that marked copies of papers and letters from all over the United States were addressed to the mayor. Probably no one person has enjoyed this huge fiasco more than he, and many are the hearty laughs he has had over letters addressed to him.

For years there has been a deadly strife between Fort Dodge and Waterloo for supremacy. Just recently Waterloo has enjoyed the distinction of a street car strike which has won for it a larger portion of metropolitan distinction. Fort Dodge could not stand idly by and permit her hated rival to acquire these newly achieved honors and make no effort to outdistance her. The outside papers asked for more news regarding the marriage ordinance, and here was the opportunity for which the reputation builders of the city were looking. Miss Jenny Cameron, principal of the Castlewood private schools for children, was elected a leader of the spinsters in opposition to the ordinance. Jennie was made to hold mass meetings, boycott a mythical department store with a mythical manager, and Charles Swift, another fictitious personage, was made to take up the opposition in behalf of the ordinance and its effect, resulting in the agitation and scenes, was fostered and added to until every daily paper from coast to coast has given space to more or less of the reports sent out.

Throughout it all there has been the very best of humor, and no one has been in anywise injured. All past history of the Cardiff giant and the hole convention have been surpassed in notoriety and fame achieved through a simple little joke in the form of a mock ordinance which was read at a regular session of the council.

Mr. H. C. Lea, who drew the attention of the secretary of state for war to the remarkable order, was informed by Mr. Haldane that instructions had been given to cancel it.

MULE AMBULANCE FOR MINES.

Car to Be Used in Pennsylvania to Aid the Injured.

Pittsburg.—Car ambulances, drawn by mules, are to be introduced in the hard coal mines of Pennsylvania to facilitate the work of the First Aid to the Injured Corps, when accidents occur far from the mine openings. The body of the ambulance cars is similar to those of the ordinary mine car, but between the two platforms are sets of springs which prevent jarring as the car is moved. On the upper platform two upholstered stretchers are placed side by side, and the car is so arranged that either stretcher may be used separately. The sides of the cars are also unholstered, and so built that when once an injured man is placed on the stretchers he is held firmly and suffers the smallest amount of movement while being taken to the surface.

When the outer air is reached the stretchers may be taken off the car without disturbing the accident victim at all, and be carried to the hospital in an ambulance without moving the sufferer from the stretcher on which he was first placed. Each car has a full emergency equipment of rubber and woolen blankets, a medical case containing bandages, ointments, stimulants, means for stopping flow of blood and splints for broken limbs. Competitions for prizes, organized by the mine owners, between First Aid Corps are becoming frequent in the anthracite regions, and surprising skill is shown by the miner-doctors in the work for which they are thoroughly drilled by the companies' physicians.

CHICAGO'S NEW POSTMASTER.

State Senator Campbell Named to Succeed Busse.

Chicago.—Senator Daniel A. Campbell of the Twenty-first district has been appointed by President Roosevelt to succeed Fred A. Busse as postmaster of Chicago.

Daniel A. Campbell was born in Elgin, Ill., June 23, 1863, but he received his education in the Chicago public schools and at the Chicago college of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1888 and since that time he has devoted his attention to the practice of his profession and to legislative duties at Springfield. Mr. Campbell was first elected to the general assembly as a house member in 1893. Two years later he was elected to the senate and has served continuously from that time to this. He was last reelected in November, 1906.

He is known as "the silent man" and his leadership in the Illinois senate of late years has been absolute. The present organization of the senate is probably the strongest in the country.

Senator Campbell is a member of the Republican executive committee of Cook county and has long been a factor in local politics.

Ordered to Sew Up Their Pockets.

The amusing fact was elicited in the house of commons recently that a regimental order of the royal garrison artillery, First Scottish sub-district, was issued on March 1, which required officers commanding companies to report not later than March 5 all trouser pockets of non-commissioned officers and men under their command had been sewn up or removed, says the London Express.

Neglect of the order was to entail a regimental entry on the conduct of any non-commissioned officer or man concerned.

Mr. H. C. Lea, who drew the attention of the secretary of state for war to the remarkable order, was informed by Mr. Haldane that instructions had been given to cancel it.

HE SEEKS CONTROL

Mellen Has Designs On
Boston And MaineSAID TO FEAR THE NEW YORK CENTRAL.

A report of extraordinary interest has gained circulation to the effect that President Charles S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad has gained a controlling interest in the Boston and Maine corporation.

President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston and Maine refused on Friday to confirm this rumor. He did say, however, that control of his railroad cannot be purchased in the open market.

It is not probable that Mr. Mellen has actually secured control, although little doubt is felt that he would like to do so. He wishes to make impossible the transfer of the control to the New York Central and would also like to advance the interests of the New Haven system in New England to aid in the development of the recently acquired coastwise steamship lines.

Fear has been expressed that the New York Central may become dominant in Boston and Maine affairs. This would be decidedly to the disadvantage of the New Haven system. It is said that 6,000 Boston and Maine shares, about one-fifth of the total amount outstanding recently passed into New York Central hands.

If the New Haven does secure control of the Boston and Maine it is more likely to be the result of a lease than an actual purchase of stock, though an exchange of stock is not impossible.

The majority of the Boston and Maine stock is held by the American Express Company and people in Boston, Medford, Mass., Franklin, this state, and various places in Maine. Doubt is expressed if the largest shareholders would care to dispose of their stock at prevailing market prices.

AT THE NAVY YARD

Orders from the commandant have been approved by the navy department and posted regarding a change in the working hours of the clerks and draftsmen on Saturdays during the months of July, August and September. Their work will begin at eight a. m. and end at noon. The force recently filed a petition requesting a change. Since the holidays went into effect the clerks and draftsmen have been working the regular hours during the summer, from nine a. m. to one p. m.

Samuel Butler and Company have asked the navy department for more time to remove the dry dock from this yard to Revere Beach and have been granted an extension until June 1.

Five prisoners from League Island came for the Southern today.

An examination was held on Friday in the construction and repair department for two third-class assistant ship draftsmen.

Mate Edward Sweeney of the U. S. S. Southern has been ordered to report at the Boston navy yard for duty.

Illinois has rejected the gunboat Don Juan de Austria, offered by the navy department as a training ship for the state naval militia, and will wait until a better boat is available.

Gov. Deneen and Representative Foss of Illinois talked with Assistant Secretary Nowberry, of the navy department on May 4, concerning the matter and were promised a better ship later.

Only the chief engineer, assistant chief, foremen of companies and plowmen of the yard fire department will be furnished with the regulation fire caps and spunner belts.

GAME CALLED OFF

The storm of this (Saturday) morning forced the cancellation of the baseball game between Portsmouth and Newburyport High Schools. When the skies cleared and the Newburyport manager was notified to come, it was too late to get his team together. Portsmouth High has been up against a weather hoodoo this season and has suffered severely through cancellation of games and the impossibility of regular practice.

AS A HERALD MAN SEES IT

And the Cat Came Back

A few evenings ago while Police Officer Shannon was standing on the corner of Fleet and Congress streets trying to figure out the correct speed of automobiles, his attention was suddenly attracted by a peculiar noise, something like the ringing of a lead dollar on the bar when the Hall-Boys are out for a good time. He gazed toward the front of the eating house of "Charley" Weaver and saw a peculiar looking object in the street. Going over to investigate, he was surprised to find a cat lying as if asleep and called the proprietor, Mr. Weaver, outside. The cat, it appears, had been attending a sermon on the roof of the building which ended in a free-for-all fight. This cat, owned by Mr. Weaver, found that it was getting warm on the roof and made its escape by jumping to the street, thirty feet or more, onto the hard asphalt paving. The animal rested there until it heard its master's voice and then, without a blip or a yell, walked as unconcerned as ever into the lunch room. Nine lives for this cat, sure.

No Appointment Yet Made

It is understood that up to this day the examination for the permanent rectorship of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in this city, has not been held. This examination was to be held weeks ago, but owing to the work entailed by arranging affairs in other parishes this matter was not reached by the new bishop. Word was given out that this examination would be held this week or next and that the new pastor will certainly be named this month.

They Will be Missed

While the people of the Portsmouth parish are patiently awaiting the new rector, it is plain to one and all that they are decidedly pleased with the two reverend gentlemen, Rev. Fr. Cavanaugh and Rev. Fr. Dee, who are conducting the affairs of this parish. The removal of one or both of them may come with the next change ordered by the bishop and they will respond whenever called. Should it come to pass that either of them is transferred from Portsmouth, this parish, beyond a doubt, will part with two of the most active and best loved priests that have been connected with it for many years. Not only will they be missed by those of their faith, but by friends and acquaintances in all walks of life, with whom they have come in contact since they began the performance of their sacred duties among the worshippers of one of the best parishes of the state. The love and respect borne for both is attested by the outward manifestation of interest by the parishioners in responding whenever the clergymen have recommended anything for the good of the parish and the faith.

Won't This be Elegant?

Superintendent Leslie Norman of Haven and Goodwin parks is doing all kinds of work to make these places of public recreation attractive. He must not forget the comfort of his patrons, who can be found in the parks in large numbers on the warm days of summer. As a servant of this city, it is not quite plain why he does not make known the wants of his guests and either get a provision from the park fund or ask the city government to help out in the matter.

Everybody Happy

Now, everybody is aware that Col. Norman likes to please the ladies. Not only that, but there are times when he can soften the hard hearts of his political enemies in Ward Four, and now is his chance. A word to you, Supt. Norman, even if you are compelled to dig deep in your own pocket. Put up hammocks, attach electric fans to the trees and see that cool, refreshing lemonade (not the circus variety) is passed to the guests in Haven Park every hour during the balmy days of the "good old Summer time."

It Looks Like No Parade This Year

There is one thing that seems certain in fire department circles, and that is that the annual parade of the Portsmouth fire department will not take place in the year 1907. The parade will be missing for more reasons than one, the principal one, however, being that the city government failed to appropriate any money for it. Then again, the majority of the firemen are against it. Since the companies were reduced the interest has waned, in fact, many of the firemen say they are pleased and wished the parade cut out long ago.

Will Do Something Else With the Money

It is understood that instead of the city blowing in $500 for the firemen's parade this money will be spent for hose, something that is, or has been, badly needed. There may be a few firemen and small boys disappointed by the omission of the usual display of the department, but on the whole the majority of the regular men and the taxpayers in general will agree that it's a good thing.

Fred Making Good

Fred V. Helt, the new manager of Hotel DeWitt, seems to be right at home in hotel life and although it is a new business for the hustling young proprietor he handles the affairs of his hostelry like a veteran. The DeWitt, under his management, is sure to make good with the local as well as the traveling public as an up-to-date hotel.

As Active as in Youth

One of the most remarkable instances of the retention of mental and physical powers by a man of advanced age is that of Joseph H. Berry of this city. Mr. Berry observed his ninety-sixth birthday on the thirteenth day of last month and yet he is in every way as active as the majority of men fifty years his junior. He keeps himself informed by constant reading and is as deeply interested in the affairs of the day as any man in Portsmouth. He makes daily trips down town from his home at the corner of Islington and Salem streets and gets on and off electric cars unaided with almost the agility of youth. His calls upon his friends in the business district are looked upon as among the pleasantest events of the day. When a boy, he learned the blacksmithing trade and became famous as an expert workman. In the days when Portsmouth was an important seaport he executed large contracts for ship work. No man in Portsmouth is more keenly interested in the welfare of the city and there is no man whose opinions are regarded with more respect by those who know him well.

WINTER STILL LINGERING

That Winter is still lingering in the lap of Spring was proven today (Saturday) when snow fell briskly at intervals for brief periods. Just record the fact in your diary for the benefit of future generations. Remember the day, Saturday, May 11.

IT WAS A JOKE

Morris C. Foye tells The Herald that he did not send the bill for destroying brown-tail moth nests, presented in his name at the meeting of the city government on Friday evening. The presentation of the bill was the work of a practical joker.

TO LEAVE PORTSMOUTH

Perry E. Conner Takes a Position in Wisconsin

Perry E. Conner is to remove from this city, having accepted a position with a large photographic house in Wisconsin. He will leave for the West tomorrow, but will return to Portsmouth before permanently locating in the Badger state.

Mr. Conner's business in this city will be left in charge of Fred Marden, a clever young photographer, who has for some time been employed in the Conner studio.

News of Mr. Conner's departure will be received with deep regret. He has always lived here and for the past eight years has conducted a prosperous photographic business on Congress street. He is a prominent member of the Portsmouth Athletic Club and other social organizations. Of his success in his new field of labor, his friends have no doubt.
